Collateral Requirements:

Language Study: Global Studies majors are required to complete the equivalent of Intermediate Proficiency in a language other than English. This means that students must complete a minimum of 2 semesters (or 8 credits) of language study, through the Intermediate Level or Second-year language courses (typically 11/12 level coursework in the department of MLL). Students who lack any foreign language proficiency will also need to first complete 2 semesters at the Beginners Level or First-year language courses (typically 01/02 level coursework in MLL). Students may place out of Beginners Level or First-year language courses based on the criteria outlined on the MLL website at: <http://mll.cas2.lehigh.edu/language-placement-guidelines>. Students may also take one semester of language study during Study Abroad, if visiting a location in the language of study. Thus, the GS language requirement can be fulfilled with foreign language AP credit, from courses taken at Lehigh, from coursework taken abroad, or some combination of these.

Global Studies students can also fulfill the Foreign Language requirement by minoring in foreign language.

Study abroad or International Internship: Students should complete 12 credits of study abroad, which can be used to fulfill elective or core course requirements when appropriate. Students may also substitute an international internship for study abroad; the internship must include a minimum of 100 hours over at least six weeks (presumably during the summer) and must be at an organization connected to global issues. If extended time abroad is a hardship, GS students may also petition the program director to undertake a U.S.-based internship directly involved in international and global issues.
